Crown Commercial Service Supplier

5th September 2017

Amicus ITS scores nearly 100% in its technical marks to gain entry to the UK Government framework for technology services

Amicus ITS has just been named as one of the Government's new official suppliers on the managed service technology framework tendering for central Government contracts.

Sales Director Les Keen commented: "We are thrilled to hear this latest news from the Crown Commercial Services. This follows our success earlier in 2017 for the CCS, getting on their cloud services platform called G-Cloud 9. RM3804 is the replacement technology services platform for RM1058 which we first joined in 2015.

As my team will attest, getting onto a Government framework is no walk in the park. It involves a full re-tendering process with due diligence checks which involve stringent technical and corporate challenges. We are Subject Matter Experts and RM3804 is truly a space for the elite in our sector providing trusted IT solutions and support for Government departments and the public sector. By gaining this award, Amicus ITS has demonstrated its capabilities, security status and technical competencies. We are now perfectly poised to bid afresh for important new Government contracts starting in September.

To achieve a near 100% score is remarkable, and a testimony to the talent and teamwork from many individuals across different departments at Amicus ITS. I do want to say a huge thanks in particular to Stephen Moore, Peter Prentice and Lindsay Burden, all of whom put a significant amount of time and effort into this project in order that we could secure such a great outcome.
